Our prescription strength CBD-Rx products are effective for both therapeutic and maintenance needs. Non psychoactive in nature, our cannabinoid extracts focus specifically on inflammation reduction, minimizing manipulation of other cells as tumors spread and work to ravage through the body.

While effective in combatting cancer, cannabinoids have been proven to be beneficial in reducing arthritis, and immune mediated responses. The terpenes in CBD also work in regards to reducing brain inflammation, and can help to reduce anxiety in people, helping to regulate adrenal activity.

The CBD-Rx Difference...

stronger than full spectrum cbd oil, our proprietary purification process removes all the waxes, chlorophylls, and unnecessary substances within the plant, preserving the terpenes and cannabinoid compounds necessary to reduce inflammation and fight against things like cancer and immune related disorders.
